STOP, OR I'LL SHINE THIS LIGHT IN YOUR EYES!

9-11PM

DRAGON FIGHTER (Sci Fi) Now, I'm not gonna sit here and tell you this Sci Fi Channel premiere is a good movie. The story (about a group of scientists who clone a dragon and then watch it run amok) is weak, the acting is weaker, and the effects are mediocre at best. On the plus side, you do get to watch Dean Cain (as chief of security, above) get chased by a fire-breathing dragon, and who hasn't begged to see that at some point in their lives? But wait, there's even more unintentional fun to be had: Director Phillip Roth tries to get all arty on us by using split-screen shots to show different angles of the same scene, which would have been cool had the action actually matched up instead of always showing the same actors standing in completely different positions. It's like one big two-hour blooper reel. D+

2:30-8PM

CHEECH & CHONG THREE-SOME (Comedy Central, TV-14-DL) The threesome being Cheech, Chong, and a big honkin' stash of doobies. It's also three of their films: Nice Dreams, Still Smokin', and Next Movie.

8-9PM

AMERICAN DREAMS (NBC, TV-PG) The girls go crazy over a Stateside visit from Paul, John, George, and yes, even Ringo. (R)

SEASON PREMIERE

8-9PM

THE DIVISION (Lifetime, TV-PG-DLV) Evidently Dean Cain defeated the dragons, because he's guest-starring on The Division's third-season premiere. Good for him.

8-10PM

GENTLE BEN II: DANGER ON THE MOUNTAIN (Animal Planet, TV-G) What's this? Dean Cain...again? Man, this guy is busy. This time, he tackles a toxic cover-up. But he can't do it alone. He needs the help of a bear.

~~Dean Cain, as chief of security, in a scene from Dragon Fighter. Cain is shown in a dark, industrial setting, holding a flashlight and looking intently at the camera. The scene is part of a promotional image for the movie.~~
